

Na sličnoj konfiguraciji terena Lenko Pleština gradi obiteljsku kuću na Pantovčaku (2002.), čija je pojavnost izvedena iz oblikovnog registra kasnog modernizma u kojem se građevni elementi shvaćaju kao dio autonomnog, apstraktnog jezika. Pleština je pokazao elokventnost i vještinu u artikulaciji tektoničkih elemenata gradnje koji su razrađeni do visokog stupnja formalne elaboracije. Format kuće je naglašeno vertikalna, a organizacija programa je unutar ekonomičnog tlocrta riješena putem distribucije funkcionalnih sadržaja u presjeku. Kuća se preko staklenih stijena otvara prema zelenoj udolini nad kojom lebdi terasa belle etage.

Lenko Pleština built the Family House on Pantovčak (2002) on a similar terrain; the villa's appearance originated from the formal register of late modernism, where the construction elements are seen as a part of an autonomous, abstract language. Pleština showed eloquence and skill in articulating tectonic construction elements that were detailed to the high degree of formal elaboration. The house has a vertical form, and the program organization is resolved within the economic floor plan through distribution of functional content in the cross-section. The house opens through the glass walls to the green valley, with a hovering bel étage terrace above it.
